

Annemette Kjærgaard

Professor with special responsibilities, researcher and programme manager – Department of Management, Society and Communication.

Annemette Kjærgaard, PhD, is Associate Professor in IS & Organisation at the Department of Informatics at the Copenhagen Business School, Denmark where she lectures in change management and organisational development. Her research interests are organizational and human implications of implementation and use of information systems with a special focus on organisational identity and organisational change.

Personal site: <https://www.cbs.dk/en/research/departments-and-centres/department-of-management-society-and-communication/staff/amkmsc>